Atlanta, GA – Reiter & Company, a local Atlanta construction software dealer, recently celebrated its 20 year anniversary as a GTCO Calcomp distributor offering the manufacturer's extensive line of Construction Estimating peripherals.

GTCO Calcomp is widely regarded as the dominant equipment supplier for construction professionals in designing and planning building projects. The company has a long track record...30 years and over one million systems installed worldwide.

“To say that we're honored to have been offering their prestigious line for all this time is an understatement”, says Perry Reiter, Reiter & Company's Founder and President. “We realize the ongoing importance of the relationship and look forward to extending GTCO Calcomp's high quality standards for years to come!”

The line of products has been a good complement to Reiter & Company's other offerings as it strives help the construction community through productivity tools. Their other offerings include Sage Timberline Office software (commercial construction) and HomeFront software (residential construction). “The GTCO Calcomp line is the hardware piece that complements our business productivity software model”, says Reiter. “Through these relationships, we offer everything a construction organization needs to enhance productivity and, really, to survive this period. We're excited to help our customer base with the tools that really make a difference.”
